

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonful ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak, sore lungs. "I feel sure its a God send to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo. "For I believe I would have consumed today, if I had not used this great remedy." Its guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50 cent or $1.00 size at Crenshaw & Young.

In the Evening a Married Man Likes to go Down Town.

In an article in the June Woman's Home Companion, entitled "The Vanishing Husband," the author presents an interesting study of the inequality that exists between men and women. Following is an extract showing how men will leave the finest homes imaginable and go off by themselves to enjoy each other's society.

"In the community where my friends live the saloon was unknown, and man's love of enjoying himself with men undisturbed by the female-of-the-species was symbolized by a meager and virtuous pool-table at the back of some grocery store. Yet that pool-table was frequented daily by a coterie of law-abiding men, married and other. The men of the town for want of a club gathered themselves together at a barber's or at a fruit store, or, after the day's work was finished, stood in groups at the end of wharves, spitting out to sea and conversing, far away from the unsocial feminine atmosphere. In these various uncomfortable and unsympathetic spots they talked together about politics, the day's catch of fish, the National and American Leagues, business, and all the interests of men.

"Most of these men had comfortable homes—homes with porches where rockers and piazza chairs spread wide arms; yet when, in going through a small town, do you see a group of men socially assembled in such a spot? Yet you may see four or five men gathered, not about one another's hearthstones, but learning over a pigsty in contemplation of the new pigs, or in the stable—again in a spot where woman, the invader, is not apt to come and spoil the conversation.

"How true this is in the little village where a man's gregariousness finds small outlet, the eloquent and even pathetic signs in any of the stores can testify. Drop down in any rural community, and you will find signs like these: 'Please loaf in the back room'; 'Loafing not appreciated.' Does it refer to the women of the community? Surely not. Women almost never loaf; for woman is a solitary, ungregarious creature, undesirable of the presence of her own sex.

"And here you have the true superiority of man. This is his great stronghold; herein lies his Samson-like power. From this root springs the subjection of woman. He is able to, nay, desirous of enjoying himself without the presence of the other sex. Not so may women enjoy herself without man."

PLAYING CARDS FOR TREATY

How Labouchere and the British Minister Modified the American Secretary of State.

Years ago I was in America and went down with the English minister to the United States to a small inn in Virginia, where we were to meet Mr. Marcy, the then United States secretary of state, and a reciprocity between Canada and the United States was to be quietly discussed. Mr. Marcy, the most genial of men, was as cross as a bear. He would agree to nothing. "What on earth is the matter with your chief?" I said to a secretary who accompanied him. "He does not have his rubber of whist," answered the secretary. After this every night the minister and I played at whist with Mr. Marcy and his secretary, and every night we lost. The stakes were very trifling, but Mr. Marcy felt flattered by beating the Britishers at what he called their own game. His good humor returned, and every morning when the details of the treaty were being discussed we had our revenge and scored a few points for Canada.—Henry Labouchere, in London Truth.

"TIME TO READ."

On the prairie one had time to read. I heard Arthur's mother say that there was so little time for children to read when they were going to school, and I wondered. I didn't see how there could be such a thing as not having time to read. You don't think about taking time to read—you just read. The only occasion when we thought of time was when we were hurrying through one book to get to another waiting, and holding out fascinating promise that hastened our progress toward it. And then it was so quiet on the prairie. The general whooping of life was so far away that it did not call us from books with the insistence of its noise. Its activity became history or romance before it reached us.—Margaret Lynn, in the Atlantic.

ENEMY OF MANKIND.

The latest addition to the list of human diseases which are spread through the instrumentality of biting insects is, according to the Lancet, kala-azar, or black fever, and the propagator is the bedbug. The disease is found most often in India, and there, under the direction of European scientists, war is being made on the bug. "This incrimination of the bedbug," says an English army surgeon, "affords another instance of the importance of cleanliness in dwellings and the need of waging constant warfare against biting insects, more particularly on those which rely upon man for sustenance."

MEANT AS A REFLECTION.

A ball game between two semi-pro teams, one colored, was played on the North side and attracted a numerous following of negroes who went a long way to root for their team. They occupied a section by themselves.

A foul ball went in among them and did not come back, causing a red-haired contender to go to that part of the stand and yell:

"Throw that ball back. What do you think it is—a chicken?"—Chicago Post.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

"Do you think my daughter sings any better than she did when she began receiving instructions from you?"

"Oh, yes, much better. I am often able to listen to her for ten or fifteen minutes at a time now."

To the Democrats of Lafayette County:

There is a nation-wide sentiment against favor-seeking interests financing political campaigns, and the most wholesome way to throttle that insidious encroachment upon the rights of those who want justice substituted for favoritism in the affairs of government, is for the individual citizen to realize that a responsibility rests upon him to contribute financially for the furtherance of those political ideas that are consonant with his own views of justice in government affairs.

The frank and positive refusal of Missouri's candidate for president, Hon. Champ Clark, to accept campaign donations from questionable sources, brings the question of the people financing campaigns squarely up to those who are demanding justice as between organized monopoly on one hand and the every-day citizen on the other.

It is perfectly clear to all sensible men that no campaign, national in its scope, can be conducted without the legitimate expenditure of quite a lot of money. If we want a president of and for the common people, we, the plain, every-day citizens must contribute modestly to see that the candidate who most nearly represents our ideas is given a fair, square opportunity to win upon the issues and his merits.

The attitude of Speaker Clark should appeal to honest men of every political faith, and his positive enunciation of such a principle should quicken the conscience and loosen the purse strings of every honest reformer in Lafayette county. As chairman and secretary of the Lafayette County Democratic Committee, we have decided to inaugurate an opportunity for Lafayette county people to contribute to the Clark Campaign Fund, and accordingly have mailed subscription blanks out to the various voting precincts. We especially urge all those interested not to wait for the paper to be presented to them, but to inquire about the subscription and make their contributions early. Sums from 50 cents up will be accepted and if remitted to H. C. Chiles, Lexington, Missouri, will be forwarded to the St. Louis Republic where the list of contributors will be published and a receipt forwarded to each donor.

Attend to this at once and thereby manifest more than a passing interest in the efforts of democracy to again bring the people into possession of their own.

B. C. DRUMMOND,
Chairman.

H. C. CHILES, Secretary.

COMMON SENSE SILO

Silos—	Us

We Have A New Idea That Builds A

Perfect Ensilage Preserver at the Least Cost of Construction and the Most Substantial Wood Building that can be Erected

The farmer knows that the silo utilizes all the feed value of farm crops and makes feeding a matter of two hours light work instead of a day of drudgery hauling feed.

One acre good corn equals 10 tons silage.
Ten tons silage feeds three head cattle 6 months.
One acre in silo is worth about 3 in the crib.
One ton silage occupies 50 cu. ft.
One ton hay occupies 500 cu. ft.

It will be seen that ten times more space is required for hay than silage and it is not possible to construct even a cheap hay shed, to say nothing of a barn, for the price required to store the same quantity of silage.

The question is what kind of a silo to build. We recommend the Common Sense method of silo construction because:
It is within the means of the smallest feeder, as the height is not fixed and it can be added to from year to year as the herd increases.
The walls are substantial and can not collapse.

No hoops to tighten.
No braces necessary.
Will not shrink or buckle.
It is so simple to construct that anyone can build it.
No door expense. Doors are cut out of the solid section of wall and beveled, making them practical, simple and air tight.

This silo is built with 8, 7, 8, 9 or 10 sides and is made of 2x4's—6 ft., laid like brick flatwise, and lined with acid-proof prepared roofing, making it absolutely air tight.
